Drug Offences

1 Prohibited drugs

Most drug offences in NSW are set out in the Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act. There are also some offences in other Acts such as the Summary Offences Act (NSW), the Poisons and Therapeutic Goods Act (NSW) and the Customs Act (Commonwealth).

Please note that the penalties listed here are all maximum penalties, which are not often imposed. The court may also impose other penalties such as a good behaviour bond, community service order, suspended sentence, etc.

For some drug offences (mainly possession and self-administration) there are diversionary schemes which allow the matters to be dealt with without going to court. See section 4 of this document for more details.

1.1 Possession

Possession of a prohibited drug (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s10).

To be in possession of a drug, it has to be in your custody or control, and you must know about it. You can be guilty of possession if you share ownership or control of the drug with others, or if you are minding the drug for someone else.

Max penalty: $2,200 fine and/or 2 years imprisonment.

1.2 Using

Self-administration of a prohibited drug (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s12).

You will not be prosecuted for self-administration if you use in a medically-supervised injecting centre (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s36N) (currently there is only one in NSW, at Kings Cross). If you are using anywhere else, you may be charged if the police see you or if you admit to using. However, police have guidelines about overdoses and usually don't prosecute people who overdose and have to be treated by paramedics.

Max penalty: $2,200 fine and/or 2 years imprisonment.

1.3 Equipment

Possession of equipment for self-administration of a prohibited drug (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s11).

Note: it is not an offence to possess a syringe (clean or dirty).

Max penalty: $2,200 fine and/or 2 years imprisonment.

1.4 Supply

Supplying a prohibited drug (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s25)

Supply has a very broad definition and includes offering or agreeing to supply, whether or not any drugs change hands. If you sell aspirin and pass it off as heroin, you may be guilty of supply! Supply also includes giving drugs away without receiving any payment. If you introduce someone to a dealer, you may be guilty of being knowingly concerned in supply.

Supply also includes having drugs in your possession for the purpose of supply. If you have more than the “traffickable quantity” (eg 3g heroin or 300g cannabis leaf) you may be charged with deemed supply (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s29) and it will be up to you to prove that you didn’t intend to supply it to anyone else.

There is also the offence of ongoing supply (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s25A), which involves supplying drugs for financial gain on 3 or more separate occasions within one month. It doesn't have to be the same type of drug each time.

The maximum fine can range from $220,000 to $550,000, and the maximum term of imprisonment can range from 10 years to life, depending on the type and quantity of drug, and whether it was supplied to a child under 16.

1.5 Cultivation

Cultivating a prohibited plant (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s23)

The maximum fine can range from $220,000 to $550,000, and the maximum term of imprisonment can range from 10 years to life, depending on the type and quantity of drug, the method (eg hydroponic) and whether it was done in the presence of a child under 16.

1.6 Manufacture

Manufacturing a prohibited drug (Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act s24)

The maximum fine can range from $220,000 to $550,000, and the maximum term of imprisonment can range from 10 years to life, depending on the type and quantity of drug, and whether it was done in the presence of a child under 16.

1.7 Drug premises

"Drug premises" are any premises (eg house, flat, office) which are used for the unlawful supply or manufacture of prohibited drugs (other than cannabis). A place may be “drug premises” even if no drugs are found, or no-one is caught dealing there.

Under the Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act, it is an offence to:

- (a) enter or be on drug premises (unless you can prove you have a lawful excuse to be there) (s36X),
- (b) organise or help organise drug premises, including being a lookout or door guard (unless you can prove that you didn’t know, and could not reasonably be expected to know, that they were drug premises) (s36Z), or
- (c) be an owner or tenant and knowingly allow your premises to be used as drug premises (s36Y).

Max penalty: First offence, $5,500 fine and/or 12 months imprisonment. Second or subsequent offence, $55,000 fine and/or 5 years imprisonment.

1.8 Introducing drugs or syringes into prisons

- (a) Bringing alcohol, restricted substances or prohibited drugs into a prison (Summary Offences Act s27B).

Max penalty:

Alcohol: 6 months imprisonment and/or $1,100 fine.

Restricted substances/poisons: 2 years imprisonment and/or $2,200 fine.

Prohibited drugs: 2 years imprisonment and/or $5,500 fine.

- (b) Introducing syringe into a prison or attempting to supply a syringe to an inmate (Summary Offences Act s27C)

Max penalty: 2 years imprisonment.

You don't have to intend to give the drug or syringe to a prisoner. It is an offence even if it's for your own personal use and you leave it in a locker while you are visiting.

2 Prescription drugs, tobacco & alcohol

2.1 Prescribed restricted substances

Possession, attempted possession or supply of a prescribed restricted substance (ie a prescription drug) without a prescription; forging or fraudulently altering a prescription; fraudulently obtaining a prescription; or knowingly possessing a prescription of that nature (Poisons and Therapeutic Goods Act s16).

Max penalty: $2,200 fine and/or 6 months imprisonment; for anabolic or androgenic steroids: $2,200 fine and/or 2 years imprisonment.

2.2 Alcohol

- (a) Possession or consumption of alcohol by a child under 18 in a public place, without responsible adult supervision or reasonable excuse (Summary Offences Act s11).

Max penalty: $20 fine.

- (b) If you are under 18, it is an offence to drink, obtain or attempt to obtain, or carry away alcohol on licensed premises (Liquor Act s118), to be in a restricted area of licensed premises (s115), or to use false identification to enter or consume alcohol on licensed premises (s129).

Max penalty: $1,100 fine.

- (c) Supplying or selling alcohol to (or obtaining alcohol on behalf of) a child under 18 (Liquor Act s117). Note: this does not apply to a parent or guardian of the child.

Max penalty: $5,500 fine (or $11,000 and/or 12 months imprisonment in "circumstances of aggravation"). Circumstances of aggravation exist where the court is of the opinion (having regard to the quantity or nature of the liquor involved, or the age of the person involved, or other relevant considerations) that the offence is so serious as to warrant the imposition of a penalty in excess of a $5,500 fine (s141).

- (d) Sending a person under 18 to go to licensed premises to obtain alcohol (Liquor Act s 115(d)).

Max penalty: $2,200 fine.

- (e) It is an offence for a licensee to allow a person under 18 to be on licensed premises unless the young person is removed immediately, or is 14 or over and has produced ID that gives the licensee reasonable grounds to believe he or she is 18 or over (s116B).

Max penalty: $5,500 fine.

2.3 Tobacco

- (a) It is an offence to sell tobacco or a non-tobacco smoking product (eg herbal cigarettes) to a person under 18 (unless the young person is 14 and over and has produced ID that gives the seller reasonable grounds to believe he or she is 18 or over) (Public Health (Tobacco) Act s22).

Max penalty: First offence: $11,000 fine (for an individual), $55,000 (for a corporation). Second or subsequent offence: $55,000 fine (individual), $110, 000 fine (corporation).

- (b) It is an offence for a person over 18 to purchase tobacco or non-tobacco smoking products on behalf of a person under 18 (unless the young person is 14 and over and has produced ID that gives the person reasonable grounds to believe he or she is 18 or over) (Public Health (Tobacco) Act s58A).

Max penalty: $2,200 fine.

- (c) Even though it is not an offence for a child or young person to buy, possess or smoke cigarettes, police may confiscate tobacco or non-tobacco smoking product from a person under 18 in a public place (Public Health (Tobacco) Act s58).

3 Police powers with drugs

3.1 Stop and search powers

The police can search you, or your vehicle, or possessions without a warrant if the police suspect on reasonable grounds that you have in your possession (or in your vehicle) a prohibited drug (Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act, s21, s36).

“Reasonable suspicion” depends on the circumstances. A guess or a hunch, or the fact that you are near a methadone clinic or needle exchange, is generally not enough. However, if you have a record of drug offences, and are hanging around an area known for drug dealing without any other reason for being there, the police may have reasonable grounds to suspect that you have illegal drugs on you.

If a police officer suspects on reasonable grounds that a prohibited drug is concealed in your mouth or hair, they may ask you to open your mouth or to shake or move your hair. This does not authorise them to forcibly open your mouth. Failure to comply with such a request is an offence (maximum penalty $550 fine) (Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act s21A).

3.2 Sniffer dogs

Under the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act s147-149, the police may use dogs for ‘general drug detection’ in designated public places (including pubs, nightclubs, dance parties, sporting events, railway stations, most public transport routes) and in other public places with a warrant.

This means the police can take the dogs into any designated area and walk them around to see if they detect any illegal drugs (Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act s146). There is no requirement that the police have a reasonable suspicion that any person is carrying illegal drugs.

Detection is at random and (in theory at least) does not allow the police to command the dog to sniff particular individuals. The police must try to prevent the dog from touching anyone. The police are not allowed to detain anyone or prevent anyone from leaving the area while the dogs are doing general drug detection.

If a dog detects a scent on someone, it is trained to sit down next to the person. Police will regard this as reasonable grounds to suspect that the person is carrying drugs, and may conduct a search.

3.3 Searching premises

Generally, the police may only search private property with the consent of the occupier (usually the owner or tenant) or if they have a search warrant.

Most search warrants are issued under the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act. Police must have reasonable grounds to suspect that there is something on the property connected with a criminal offence (eg drugs, stolen goods).

If the police have reasonable grounds to suspect premises are being used for the manufacture or supply of prohibited drugs, they may get a search warrant under the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act s140. The police do not have to suspect that there are actually any drugs on the premises.

4 Court, conference or caution?

4.1 Courts

Most offences involving illegal drugs must be dealt with by a court.

Possession, self-administration, possession of equipment, introduction of drugs etc to prisons, or a first offence relating to drug premises, are summary offences, which means they are always dealt with by the Local Court or Children's Court (depending on the age of the defendant).

Offences such as supply, manufacture, cultivation, or a second or subsequent offence relating to drug premises, are indictable offences. This means they may be dealt with by a higher court such as the District or Supreme Court, although, in practice, most indictable offences are actually dealt with by the Local or Children's Court.

Cases involving very large quantities of drugs, or ongoing supply, are always dealt with by the District or Supreme Court. For example, the District Court will hear charges involving more than 5 grams of heroin, cocaine or speed, 1.25 grams of ecstasy, 1 kilogram of cannabis leaf or 50 cannabis plants.

The 'purity' of a drug is not relevant in determining what quantity of drugs you possess or what you are charged with. For example, one kilogram of 60% heroin and 40% bicarbonate soda is treated as one kg of heroin. However, the purity will be relevant when determining your sentence.

Your sentence will also be more severe the larger the quantity of drugs, the more pure the drug is, the more harmful the court believes the drug is, the higher up the supply chain you are, or if you are an adult supplying drugs to children under 16.

4.2 The Drug Court

Drug courts deal with people who are dependent on drugs and whose offending is linked to this.

Currently there is an Adult Drug Court (based at Parramatta and the Hunter area). It only takes people who live in, or have committed offences in, the Western Sydney or Hunter area.

For several years there was also a Youth Drug and Alcohol Court, but it is no longer operating as of July 2012.

The Adult Drug Court won't take anyone who has committed a violent offence (eg robbery) or a serious drug offence (eg. dealing more than a certain quantity of drugs). It also doesn't deal with people whose main drug of dependence is alcohol.

People on the Drug Court program are placed in an individualised rehabilitation program for 12 months or more, with support from a case manager and strict supervision by the court. A person who successfully completes the program can expect to receive a more lenient sentence (for example, a suspended sentence instead of full-time imprisonment).

4.3 The MERIT program

MERIT (Magistrates Early Referral Into Treatment) is a program for people who are appearing at the Local Court and who have problems with illegal drugs. It is available at most Local Courts around New South Wales.

The MERIT program generally deals with less serious offences than the Drug Court. Participants take part in a 3-month program as part of their bail conditions. If they successfully complete the program, they are likely to receive a more lenient outcome.

There is also an Alcohol MERIT program available at a few Local Courts.

4.4 Young Offenders Act

The Young Offenders Act allows some offences committed by people under 18 to be dealt with by a warning, caution or Youth Justice Conference instead of going to court. Unfortunately, the Young Offenders Act does not apply to most drug offences.

Possession or self-administration of drugs may be dealt with by warning, caution or conference, as long as the quantity is no more than a 'small quantity.' The "small quantity" as defined by the Drug Misuse and Trafficking Act for various types of drugs is:

- Cannabis - up to 30g* or 5 plants
- Ecstasy - up to 0.25g
- MMDA - up to 0.8g
- Heroin - up to 1g
- Amphetamine (including ice) - up to 1g
- Cocaine - up to 1g
- LSD - up to 4 "trips" or 0.0008g

* For cannabis, a caution can't be given under the Act for more than 15g, unless the police believe there are exceptional circumstances and that it would be in the interests of the young person's rehabilitation.

Cultivation or possession of prohibited plants may also be dealt with under the Young Offenders Act if the amount of the plant is no more than half the 'small quantity.' For cannabis, the 'small quantity' is 5 plants (this means that half the small quantity would be 2.5 plants!). In exceptional circumstances, a matter involving more than half the small quantity may be dealt with under the Young Offenders Act, as long as the amount is less than the small quantity and dealing with the matter under the Act would be in the interests of the young person's rehabilitation.

Offences relating to drug premises, prescribed restricted substances, alcohol and tobacco may be dealt with under the Young Offenders Act.

4.5 Cannabis Cautioning Scheme

For adults, there is a Cannabis Cautioning Scheme, which allows police to issue a caution instead of laying a charge. It applies to use or possession (but not supply) of up to 15g of cannabis, as long as the offender has no prior convictions for drug, sexual or violent offences.

A person can receive up to 2 cautions, which do not count as criminal convictions. Upon getting a second caution, the offender is required to contact the Alcohol and Drug Information Service (ADIS) for mandatory education on cannabis use.

4.6 On-the-spot fines

For most alcohol or tobacco-related offences, the police will usually give you an infringement notice (an on-the-spot-fine). You can choose to pay the fine or contest it in court. Doing nothing will not make the fine go away, and may have serious consequences. See fact sheet on Fines for more information.

5 Being intoxicated in public

5.1 Police powers to detain intoxicated persons

The Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act Part 16 applies to people who are intoxicated (seriously affected by alcohol or any other drug) and who are behaving in a disorderly manner or who need physical protection because of their intoxication.

Police may take an intoxicated person home or place them in the care of a responsible person (eg friend, relative, welfare worker, refuge) (s206). If necessary, they may detain the intoxicated person in a police station while finding a responsible person. If no-one can be found, police may detain the person until they cease to be intoxicated. The person must be released as soon as they cease to be intoxicated (s207).

Reasonable restraint may be used to ensure that the intoxicated person does not injure anyone (including himself or herself) or damage property. Police may search the intoxicated person when they are detained and may take possession of their belongings, but the possessions must be returned when the person is released (s208).

Intoxicated people who are detained under the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act are not charged with an offence and their details are not entered in the COPS database, nor are they fingerprinted. They should be kept separate from people detained for criminal offences, and juveniles must be kept separate from adults. They must be provided with necessary food and bedding.

5.2 Police powers to give directions to people who are intoxicated and disorderly

Part 14 of the Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act allows police to give you a direction if:

- you are in a public place, and

- you are intoxicated, and
- police believe on reasonable grounds that you are likely to cause injury to any other person(s), or damage to property, or a risk to public safety, or if you are disorderly (s198).

The direction must be reasonable in the circumstances for the purpose of preventing injury or damage, reducing or eliminating the risk you may cause, or preventing you from continuing with disorderly behaviour in a public place. The police can direct you to leave a public place and not return for up to 6 hours (s198 (2) and (3)).

Failure to comply with a reasonable direction is an offence with a maximum penalty of $220 (s199).

Even if you obey the direction, it is an offence for you to be found in any public place while still intoxicated and disorderly, for up to 6 hours after you were directed to move on. It is not an offence if you have a reasonable excuse (eg you are still on your way home). The maximum penalty is $660 (Summary Offences Act s9).

You can't be charged with both of these offences at the same time.

You are not guilty of an offence unless the police have identified themselves, told you the reason for the direction and warned you that failure to comply, or being intoxicated and disorderly in a public place within 6 hours, is an offence (Law Enforcement (Powers and Responsibilities) Act s201).

6 Drugs and driving

It is an offence to drive under the influence of alcohol or drug, with a "prescribed concentration of alcohol" in your blood, or with certain prohibited drugs present in your saliva, blood or urine. See the separate fact sheet on 'Drugs, Alcohol and Driving.'
